DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Drawings

2. The drawings were received on 28 April 2006. These drawings are accepted.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 1-31 are allowed over the Prior Art of record.
4. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The primary reasons for allowance of independent claim 1 is the inclusion of the specific limitations of a leak detector of a liquid in a tank, the limitations being a control unit having a pulse voltage generating circuit for applying a single pulse voltage to first and second temperature sensors and generating an output corresponding to a difference between temperatures detected by the first and second temperature sensors; and wherein the unit integrates a difference between output of a leak detecting circuit an its initial value an a calculated value equivalent to the flow rate of the liquid including all of the other recited limitations in combination. As to independent claim 7, the inclusion of a pressure sensor for measuring a level of the liquid, first and second temperature sensors and a heater wherein the sensors output corresponding to a difference between temperatures detected by the first and second temperature sensors, a leak detection control unit that performs a leakage detection that detects leakage of the liquid in the tank based on the value equivalent to the flow rate which is calculated using an output of a leak detection circuit and a second leakage detection that detects leakage of the liquid in the tank based on the magnitude of a variation rate with respect to time of the level of liquid which is measured by the pressure sensor, along with the other recited elements in combination. As to independent claim 18, the inclusion of a leak detection control unit that detects the specific gravity of the liquid in the tank which is calculated by using an output of a leak detecting circuit in a state wherein a on-off valve is closed, measures the level of the liquid by means of the pressure sensor using the value of the specific gravity detected and thus measuring the variation rate of the level of the liquid with respect to time.

5. None of the Prior Art teach the above limitations in combination with the other recited elements within each of the independent claims. The closest reasonable Prior Art reference is US 5,086,644 to Schendel, which discloses a leak detection device for tanks having measurement tubes adjacent to one another, wherein a flow rate is sensed by a sensor thus indicating a leak present in the tank, however, there are no teachings of the limitations recited above in combination with measurement tubes.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is invited to review PTO form 892 accompanying this Office Action listing Prior Art relevant to the instant invention cited by the Examiner.
